FINALLY WAKE UP

It is indeed heartening to see that some of the papers in this county have at last discovered that there has been an investigation going on by the grand jury of the affairs of the Social Service Department. Despite obvious efforts to mislead the people by misquoting the district attorney and other officials, and to throw out the impression that the audit being conducted was only a routine matter, events have forced these papers to "come to their milk."

NEWS FIRST ALWAYS

The Record-Herald, as developments came in the inquiry, gave the facts to the public and we are rather proud of the fact that this was the only paper that did so. When the matter came to a focus, the Record-Herald was the first to tell the people of Contra Costa county of the action taken and other papers were forced to follow suit. Even the Oakland papers considered the story of enough importance to "streamer" it, which would indicate that a metropolitan sheet takes a different view of Contra Costa news than many of the papers within its borders.

FOREIGN COVENANTS

"We believe a party platform is a covenant with the people to be faithfully kept with the people."

For the benefit of those who do not recognize the source of this declaration we might say that it is an excerpt from the national Democratic platform to which Mr. Roosevelt and the members of his party swore allegiance and on which they were elected to office. It is true that a party platform should be a sacred covenant between a political party and the people, but is it? History has demonstrated that it does not even rate as a "scrap of paper" and that statement applies with equal force to the history of the two major parties.

Both have been flagrant offenders in this respect. Conventions, under our scheme of government, are necessary to nominate a president and vice-president and while opposing forces are being lined up (Continued on Page 3)

Service Head Leaves For Other Fields

MARTINEZ, Jan. 24.—The smoke that surrounded the county social welfare department and its directing head for the past three years, was cleared up this morning by the Board of Supervisors appointing Otis Loveridge to the position, after Mrs. Ruth McCord, the director for the past six years, had been permitted to hand in a resignation.

The action came as the result of an all-night meeting of the grand jury and the board of supervisors, at which time testimony was given by witnesses, which prompted the grand jury to ask the supervisors for an immediate change in the office. After a short consultation, the supervisors told the inquisitorial body they would grant the request made.

At this morning's session of the board, two persons appeared, Mrs. McCord, and Mrs. Iona Booth, and when the latter left the board room she was in tears, but refused to make a statement.

In the questioning of the witnesses a very active part was taken by District Attorney Francis Healey, his deputy Rex L. Boyer, Supervisors James N. Long, Richmond; Richard Trembly, Antioch; H. L. Cummings, Crockett and members of the grand jury.

It is understood that Mrs. Booth recently made a detailed statement relating to the workings of the welfare office, to the district attorney. This was later placed in the hands of the grand jury. Just what it contains could not be ascertained, as Deputy District Attorney Rex L. Boyer refused to (Continued on Page 5)

Train and highway travel to Vancouver was halted by water and washouts.

Rivers were rising in Whatcom county near Bellingham. An avalanche of brush, rocks and trees roared across Chuckanut Drive, hurling a $5,000 residence down the embankment in ruins. No one was in the residence.

Opposition To Tax Program Of Merriam Is Growing

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—(UP)—Governor Frank E. Merriam's budget bill faced a rocky legislative road tonight as opposition sentiment began to crystallize in the form of new tax bills that differed widely from administration proposals.

A gross tax on income, profits and receipts estimated to raise $17,500,000 a biennium was proposed in a constitutional amendment by Assemblyman E. V. Latham.

The gross tax would range from 1-1/4 of 1 percent to 1-1/2 percent, depending on the type of business.

Provision was made for repeal of the sales tax and elimination of any necessity for an ad valorem levy. With other current taxes, Latham estimated the State's income would be $215,000,000 a biennium. The gross tax would be administered by the State board of equalization.

PROGRAM IS HIT
In the Senate, Culbert L. Olson, Los Angeles Democratic leader, who objected strenuously to the administration program, proposed a tax of 3 cents per $100 or 3 cents per share where no value is declared on all stock transfers. He estimated it would bring in $100,000 a year.

Assemblyman Fred Reaves, San Pedro, introduced a similar measure, with a rate of 2½ percent on stocks, and 1 percent on bonds.

NEW BILLS SEEN
Indicative of other tax proposals to come, scores of "skeleton" bills were introduced today.

Ratto sustained a compound fracture of the skull that later proved fatal. He was taken to the hospital at three o'clock in the afternoon and despite heroic efforts by hospital attendants and physicians, the man succumbed. For more than an hour an ambulance was used in a vain attempt to save his life.

FELL FROM ROOF
Ratto was repairing the roof on his home as today when in some manner his foot slipped and he fell to the ground, 12 feet below. He landed upon his head.

One of his sons, who is employed at the dairy ranch, summoned a Wilson and Kratzer ambulance and the injured man was rushed to the Crockett hospital. He was treated by Dr. L. H. Fraser.

HAUPTMANN ALIBIS HIT BY WITNESS

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 24.—(UP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann took seven long, eager strides to the witness chair today and began to din his "not" into the ears of the world.

Twenty minutes later one of the three pillars on which his case rests tumbled into ruins at his feet.

Hauptmann came to this hour on which his own salvation hangs like a man who has all the woe of the world lifted from his heart. He smiled while he stood there with his left hand on a Gideon Bible and his right hand aloft. Everything about him was gray: his suit, his blue gray shirt and the prison pallor that was heavy on his face.

LINDY WATCHES BRUNO
Another lean man dressed in gray leaned forward in his chair and stared into the "prisoner's" eyes. It also was an important moment for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

Hauptmann listened to the oath and his voice came out, hard and metallic: "I do."

The prisoner, who was about to start the story that even men in deserts in another hemisphere are waiting to hear, bent forward in the witness chair. His right hand rolled up into a fist and unrolled again.

STARTS QUIZ
Edward J. Kelly, chief of defense counsel, started through the routine of preliminary questions.

Hauptmann's replies came in (Continued on Page 8)

Sheriff John Miller Speaks To Legion Post

Crime detection and the workings of the sheriff's office were told to members of the Richmond post of the American Legion last night by Sheriff John A. Miller.

Miller told the post of his office and how the county is patrolled by ten automobiles. He said that these cars are in constant touch with headquarters by police radio and tests have shown how quickly these cars respond to calls.

The speaker also explained to the members how criminals are booked and told of the bureau of identification, including fingerprinting and photographs, which he has installed.

During the business meeting the post made plans for its costume Washington hall to be held at East Shore Park on February 23.

The organization also went on record sponsoring the Boy Scout camp which will be held here in September, bringing to this city more than 3,000 Boy Scouts and about 500 leaders. Camp will be pitched in Nicholl Park.

Ward Line Again Hit By Disaster

NEW YORK, Friday, Jan. 25.—(UP)—One hundred and sixty passengers and crew of the Ward Line Mohawk, were reported rescued early today after the steamship had been sunk off the New Jersey coast by the freighter Tallisman.

QUICKLY SINKS
Coast Guards announced the Mohawk heeled over and went to the bottom four miles off Bay Head, N. J. Coast Guard station while racing for the beach—a gaping hole in her side.

SEND DISTRESS CALLS
Both the Mohawk and the Tallisman radioed SOS alarms at 9:34. The Tallisman suffered only a battered prow when she struck the liner's side but the Mohawk began listing immediately.

ORDERED TO LIFEBOATS
The master of the Mohawk ordered passengers to the lifeboats as he put about in an effort to beach the vessel. Unable to reach shore, he put down the boats.

Five lifeboats were reported picked up by the Clyde-Wallory liner Algonquin and another by the United Fruit liner Limon.

One boat landed at Manassquan, N. J., at 11:40 p.m.

Company officials in New York said they believed all hands had been accounted for.

THIRD WARD LINE DISASTER
The accident—third to befall the Ward Line within six months—occurred within a few miles from where the huge West Indies luxury liner Morro Castle burned with loss of 134 lives last September.

A few weeks ago the Ward liner Havana crashed on a reef north of the Bahamas. The Ward Line chartered the Mohawk from the Clyde-Matlow Line to take the place of the Havana.

The charred and rusted hulk of the Morro Castle lies on the beach at Ashbury Park, N. J., not far from where the Mohawk struck.

The ships were only a few hours out of New York, bound for Southampton. The Tallisman, a Kerr liner, was bound for Jacksonville, Fla., and Bahia, Brazil. The Mohawk's ultimate destination was Vera Cruz. It was bitterly cold and fog drifted over the choppy seas.

BIG REINDEER DRIVE ENDED IN FIVE YEARS

SEATTLE, Jan. 24.—(UP)—Lomen Reindeer company officials believed today that the greatest live-stock drive ever attempted had ended today at Kittigahit, Northwest Territory, with 2,300 reindeer in corrals after a five-year trek from Nabesnotuk, Alaska.

Weather conditions on the frozen McKenzie river delta, which held up the drive for four years, were reported favorable for conclusion of the 1,000 mile (airline) migration.

Definite notification of the end of the drive will not come until some of the ten herders, led by Anthony Bohr, 62, Norwegian Laplander, mush 350 miles to the nearest radio station at Katsuebie, N. W. T.

The Canadian government contracted to buy Carl and Ralph Lomen's drive of 250,000 reindeer, $195,000 for delivery of 3,000 head at Kittigahit. The animals will be the basis of support of Canadian Eskimos fighting against starvation since modern rifles made it easy to slaughter caribou and other native game.

The two years estimated for completion of the drive stretched into five years as the herders and their dogs fought off wolves, combated dozens of stampedes and drove their charges across three mountain ranges and miles of swamps and wind-lashed tundras.

Speaking of Sports

ROME, Jan. 24.—(UP)—Italian sports officials have expressed the belief that Rome would be named for the 1940 Olympic Games. Attempts of the country to secure the XII Olympics are supported by Mussolini.

The Fascist Party has set about securing the 1940 games in a most systematic fashion and the nation believes its chances are even brighter than those of Japan, the only other country making a serious attempt for them.

CONGRESS TO MEET
On February 26, 1935 the International Olympic Congress is scheduled to meet in Oslo, Norway, to name the seat of the 1940 games. The XI Olympiad will be held in Berlin in 1936.

Both Italy and Japan began a program designed to secure the 1940 games immediately after the highly successful international meeting in Los Angeles during the summer of 1932.

Japan has constructed a number of large and splendidly equipped stadiums. The Japanese won the 1932 Olympic swimming championship and made creditable showings in many branches of the games. A staff of technicians accompanied the Japanese team to study arrangements at Los Angeles. In addition, Japan has hired many of the world's sports instructors to train Japanese youths.

In Tokyo alone, 1,600,000 yen were appropriated recently to be used in preparation for the 1940 games and for publicity.

ITALY'S REASONS
Italy, however, feels that there are many logical and sound reasons why the XII Olympiad should be held here.

Chief among these, is the fact that following the World War Italy waived its claims to an Olympiad in favor of Iceland. At that time it was understood that the International Olympic Congress would remember this bequest in selecting cities for future contests.

Rome is ideally equipped to be host to the Olympic Games. The city has two public and one private stadiums. One of the stadiums owned by the Fascist National Party seats 60,000. In case the international contests were held here in 1940 a new stadium with a seating capacity of at least 100,000 would be constructed. It would also include a swimming stadium of the latest design.

TIBER FOR ROWING
The Tiber river would furnish an excellent rowing course. Within the borders of Italy are many of the world's finest winter sports resorts.

Italy is immensely proud of the honors won in Los Angeles when the nation's team finished second to the United States and ahead of Great Britain, France, Germany and Finland. Sports are expanding rapidly and have the blessing of Il Duce and Fascism.

Italy, it is understood, would support a movement to award the 1940 games to Japan.

Lasky Rejects Offer To Meet Redoubtable Max

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 24.—(UP)—Art Lasky tonight rejected an invitation to battle Max Baer for the heavyweight championship of the world. The invitation was turned down by his manager and brother, Morris Lasky, in a telephone conversation from New York.

Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, had offered Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager, and Lasky 37½ percent of the gate receipts for a bout in Miami next month.

Decisions are not permitted under Florida law, but Lasky would have gained the heavyweight championship of the world if he won over Baer by a knockout. Lasky has had championship ambitions for months and his rejection of the offer of a crack at the title was a surprise.

BERKELEY, Jan. 24.—(UP)—Tied for leadership of the southern division of the Coast Conference, basketball teams from the University of California and the University of Southern California will battle for an edge in Conference standings in a two-game series at the Berkeley gymnasium Friday and Saturday nights.

After a slow start, in which they lost to both Santa Clara and St. Mary's the California team has developed rapidly in recent games and is at present rated on even terms with the southerners.

Recent lineup changes, in which Richie Hay, lanky guard, was moved into a first string position, are expected to strengthen the California lineup.

In the guard position, Hay's chief duty will be to stop Lee Guttor, brilliant U. S. C. center and captain.

At Los Angeles Stanford and U. C. L. A. each with one victory and two defeats, will also meet in a double header Friday and Saturday.

Future Of NRA Contingent On Court's Ruling

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—A group of presidential advisers were disclosed today to have recommended strongly that definite decisions on the future form of NRA be deferred until the supreme court has ruled on the validity of the present recovery act.

Certainly, at least, it appeared inevitable that when Congress tackles the problem it will have the guidance of an official constitutional opinion of no less an authority than the nation's highest tribunal.

Mr. Roosevelt's colleagues have become thoroughly aware in the last fortnight that the court's eventual ruling may pass on all major New Deal projects in invalidating any it may regard as lying outside the constitution.

FINAL DRAFT LIQUOR CODE BEING FRAMED

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—The California Board of Equalization is working at top speed today, preparing a final draft of a complete liquor law code for presentation to the Legislature before it recesses.

After hours of debate, centering around the fees to be set for various types of liquor licenses, a special committee representing most of the State's alcohol interests turned the proposed new code over to the board last night.

The board, which has held several days of open hearings on the act, plans now to whip it into final shape for its introduction as a legislative bill.

PROBE UNDER WAY

Senator Plevovich, D. Jackson, who introduced the resolution to investigate the entire liquor industry, was named today by Lieutenant Governor Hatfield to head the investigating committee.

Other members are Senators Parkman, San Mateo; McCall, Redding; Crittenden, Stockton; Gordon, Suisun; Seawell, Roseville, and Swing, San Bernardino.

Plevovich expects that all of the hearings will be held in Sacramento and that they will begin in March, when the Legislature reconvenes.

Hard liquors, wine and beer are to be investigated, including price, quality and methods of retailing.

BREWERS HIT HARD

Farthest reaching of the special committee's license recommendations was the proposal that beer manufacturers be assessed $250 a year for each brand they put out. This was aimed at manufacturers' beer, sold under a different label.

Charges that whisky rectified from raw spirits has harmed the market for the regularly distilled product were reflected in the recommendation that rectifiers pay a license fee of $750 annually—or as much as assessed upon distillers, who also have the right to rectify.

This committee members agree would encourage the distillation of grain liquor and give distillers a needed advantage over manufacturers of rectified spirits.

Urging protection of home industry, the committee recommended heavy license fees for importers of out-of-State liquors.

Brilliant

ONE OF the Washington season's most brilliant social affairs was the dinner given in honor of President and Mrs. Roosevelt by Vice President and Mrs. Garner, with many notables present. Above, at the dinner, are shown: Mrs. Garner, Mrs. Roosevelt, Vice President Garner and President Roosevelt, with Captain Wilson Brown, aide to the President.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—James Aloysius Farley is a busy man these days. His goings and comings oscillate with as much regularity as the rhythm of his jaw.

On Tuesdays it is a safe bet he will be in town for Cabinet meetings. On Tuesday night it is an equally safe bet he will be on the midnight sleeper to New York.

On Friday he will be back for a Cabinet meeting, and Friday night he will be off again.

Jim is extremely busy in fact, prides himself on being busy. But the time he spends at the expansive mahogany desk in the beautiful paneled office, for which he thanks Herbert Hoover, is almost nil.

All of which is getting to be one of the major inside scandals of the Administration.

It is not that Jim is doing anything shady. It is the fact that as Postmaster General Jim is doing hardly anything at all.

The result is that along with the Justice Department, the Post Office has won the reputation of having the blackest mark of any in the entire New Deal.

BUSINESS PRIDE

The funny thing about it is that Jim prides himself on being a businessman. To make a record for himself as an efficient Postmaster is supposedly his greatest aim.

Very early in his business career, Jim tied his fate to gypsum, an essential ingredient in making plaster, and at one time was the foremost gypsum salesman in New York City.

In fact, so successful was Jim that he became manager of the Universal Gypsum Company, then blossomed forth with James A. Farley and Company, dealers in all forms of building material, and eventually amalgamated several other companies into one of the most important building supply companies in New York.

Whether Jim's phenomenal rise in the business world was due to the fact that he was also a power in New York politics and that politics and contracting frequently go hand in hand, is not recorded on the books of the company.

The important fact, however, is that when Jim became Postmaster General, he considered himself a great businessman and set out to make a record as such. To this end he pared costs to the bone. He fired postal employees right and left. He reduced services. He put into force policies exactly in reverse to his Chief in the White House who was urging private business to increase wages and reduce hours.

And after one hectic year, Jim finally came forth with the joyous announcement that he had closed his books with a surplus of $12,161,415.03.

This was just like sticking out an unprotected jaw to Republican critics. They gleefully came back with figures showing that actually he had a deficit of more than $52,000,000.

Some businessmen had been accomplished by omitting the cost of franked mail, ocean and air mail costs.

STAMP CAMOUFLAGE

The actual fact is that underneath an elaborate camouflage created by selling ornate new stamp issues, Jim Farley's Post Office department has reached the lowest state of inefficiency in years.

Complaints from business men have swamped the Administration. Deliveries are sometimes two or three days behind schedule. Even in the city of Washington letters have required two days to go from one department to another.

What Jim forgot was the human element. Despite the tremendous mechanization of the postal system, it cannot function efficiently without efficient, willing workers. And Jim has ground his postal employees down to such a point that they have gone south on him.

Typical of Jim's postal administration was an incident which occurred in the National Emergency Council. The Postmaster General complained that Government departments were misaddressing mail, that his Department had to spend much time readdressing.

The President asked Jim to bring in a report, Jim did. And obviously reading it for the first time, he blushed, stammered and stopped. Then, continuing to the end, he revealed that his own Department was the worst offender.

ESPIONAGE

Tales of tapped telephone wires, dictaphones in the rooms of New Deal executives, and other forms of espionage, although exaggerated, have become so numerous that many outsiders take them seriously.

The other day Oscar Chapman, hard-hitting Assistant Secretary of the Interior, was receiving a call.

It happened that the air-rattling just behind Chapman's desk was being repaired. On its top lay some peculiar looking wires and gadgets.

The caller eyed them apprehensively. "No you don't," he declared with emphasis. "No dictaphones taking down what I have to say."

And he walked out.

Mrs. Larsen suffered bruises about the left shoulder and head, and severe shock. She will be confined to her bed for a day or so.

BILLIONS IN BANKS, PEOPLE ARE HESITANT

Billions of dollars are resting in vaults of American banks, ready for investment as soon as the market's mood becomes certain.

Nonetheless, the six-point gold clause case is chief deterrent to easy money. But there are tax, money and other problems, relief plan and other legislation to worry investors. This has resulted in stock markets which are today's 400,000 share market with price trends meaningless. The close today was record and similar markets were anticipated.

INCREASE SHOWN

At the close of 1934 deposits in all commercial banks of the United States totaled around 100 billion dollars. This represented an increase of around seven billion dollars in one year, and compared with the increase of deposit money that came in the four years between 1929 and 1934 when deposits jumped from $70,000,000,000 to $100,000,000,000.

But the stock market has failed to keep pace. At the peak of 1929, the New York Stock Exchange had a market valuation of $89,668,276,554. At the close of 1934 stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange had a market valuation of $23,933,882,614.

ALL HESITATE

This tremendous credit inflation in banks has failed to stimulate inflation in security prices, purely because of hesitancy of American businessmen to speculate or invest. This was touched upon by the publication, American Banker, which said editorially:

Only the almost complete refusal of businessmen to speculate or invest their funds upon the future of American business has prevented this deposit money inflation from translating itself into a cycle of active inflation of price levels. The usually inflationary effect of a huge increase in the money supply was negated in 1934 by the disposition of business men and other depositors to pile up large idle cash balances and concentrate them in banks under the protection of federal insurance (rather than risk them in business and investment).

TREND SHOWN

There is the tax collector for ever wanting more for nation, state and city and particularly hungry for capital gains. There is the SEC and its reformist regulation of the security business with the result that there is no longer any fun in losing one's money in the stock market, and there are Townsend, Huey Long, Father Coughlin, Union Square and the Utopian Society of Barrow Street with many schemes of sharing, distributing, confiscating and disbursing the wealth of the land.

Indicative of this trend towards pouring funds into banks instead of securities was the announcement of the Pennsylvania railroad today showing stockholders as of January 1, 1935, at $22,998 compared with $28,876 at the start of 1934.

Believed Story Of Dying Fiance; Is Now In Jail

OAKLAND, Jan. 24.—Because she believed the words of a dying fiancé, Miss Helen Dyer, unemployed stenographer of 1831 Ninth street, Alameda, is in the Oakland city prison on a bad check charge.

The girl was arrested when a hotel store notified police a woman answering the description of a check passer for whom they had been warned to be on the lookout was in the place. Police say she had cashed checks for $150 in Oakland and San Francisco.

TELLS OF MONEY

According to the girl's story, she lived for a time at the home of Mrs. Ada Benker, where she became engaged to William J. Benker, Mrs. Benker's son. They were to be married last June, the girl said, but shortly before the wedding date Benker was taken ill and subsequently died.

Just before his death he is alleged to have told the girl he had deposited $150 in a Walnut Creek bank with which she was to buy a house. The money remained there after his death, according to the girl.

NO RECORD OF ACCOUNT

"I never would have used it," she told police, "but I was in such amounts, I hadn't the slightest idea there was no money there."

Police say no such amount was established at the Walnut Creek bank and that she signed her own name to the checks and gave Mrs. Benker for a reference. They are looking the girl's story in the belief it may be true.

Marriage Lasts Only One Day

MARTINEZ, Jan. 24.—Married but one day, Mrs. Marfan B. Donohue today had filed suit for annulment in superior court here against Arcueas Donohue through Attorney T. M. Carlson of Richmond.

The couple married and separated on July 7, 1934, according to the complaint.

SHIP BUILDER SAYS PROBE INQUISITION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Undeterred by the refusal of Clinton L. Bardo, white haired former president of the New York Shipbuilding Company, to waive immunity, the Senate Munitions Committee tonight made plans to investigate him in a long session tomorrow.

Bardo today used the term "inquisition" in connection with the investigation and firmly refused to waive his constitutional rights of declining to answer questions which later might be used against him in event of prosecution.

PRICE FIXING

He coupled this refusal with an emphatic and reiterated assertion that no collusion existed between his company and others for fixing the price of cruder jobs between 1925 and 1931.

After questioning Bardo tomorrow and recessing over the week end, committee members said they planned to make a journey to Collingswood, N.J., there to question Ernest L. Cornbrook, former plant manager of the New York company.

BIDS SIMILAR

The committee placed in evidence records showing difference of as little as $33,000 between bids of three major companies, described by Rauschenbush as "supposedly competing."

Meanwhile, the House Military Affairs Committee head from spokesman of the War Department, Colonel C. T. Harris, a finance officer, that that branch of the Government desired to remove profiteering by industry during war time.

Harris urged a system by which prices sufficiently high would tend to bring in even high cost producers. If their output was necessary for war purposes, the profits of low cost produce the proposed an excess profits tax.

Berkeley Man To Face Chagres Her

Charged with driving while drunk, Levi Stagg, 48, of 1314 University avenue, Berkeley, was held in the El Cerrito city jail last night in lieu of $200 bail.

Stagg was arrested by Police Chief R. R. Cheek in El Cerrito early last evening after the man allegedly drove down San Pablo avenue in an erratic manner.

CHILD STAR TO RETURN TODAY TO LOCAL FOX

Shirley Temple in "Bright Eyes" is at the Fox theatre again.

"Bright Eyes" has been acclaimed throughout the country as little Shirley's greatest success.

The story concerns the adventures that befall a youngster whose father was an aviator and whose mother was a dancer. The action of the story is laid near a large commercial airport near Los Angeles, where Shirley is the mascot of the field.

Little Shirley is seen having a wonderful time. She sings a beautiful song "On the Good Ship Lollipop," and dances a bit.

James Dunn is again her pal and leading man, and others of the cast include June "Sailor" Darwell, Charles Sellon, Judith Allen, Lois Wilson, Jan Withers and Dorothy Christy.

On the same program will be seen Laurel and Hardy in their latest full length feature.

When Laurel and Hardy, as apprentice toymakers attempt to take care of the mortgage of Widow Peep, in the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer extravaganza, "Babes in Toyland," which is showing at the Fox theatre now, their efforts result in a group of hilarious events that makes the film an outstanding laugh success as well as a beautiful musical production. "Babes in Toyland" is a picturization of Victor Herbert's masterpiece, and is said to be Laurel and Hardy's biggest full length comedy success.

The mortgage on Widow Peep's home is held by Barnaby, the only villain in the Kingdom of Toyland. A sinister figure, he insists that either Widow Peep pay up or give him the hand of her daughter in marriage. When Stan Laurel's dumbness kills their plan to borrow the necessary money, Stan and Ollie are forced to other means to obtain the necessary funds. The beautiful rendition of Victor Herbert's stirring musical and vocal numbers is a decided highlight of this film.

Wally Westmore, one of Hollywood's ace make-up artists, draws, paints and sculpts. He modelled all the masks used in "Alice in Wonderland" and devotes most of his spare time to drawing the star whom he makes up at Paramount studios.

Kathleen Burke is an accomplished actress dancer. She has studied under Mischke, Ito, noted dance maestro, and recently gave a recital in Palm Springs.

Sir Guy Standing is a landscape painter and whenever he has a day off from work he spends it in the Hollywood hills sketching and painting.

May West writes books and plays and has turned out several hits, as has Elissa Landi, who has a total of five novels to her credit.

Gary Cooper and Norman MacLeod, the director, both have worked on newspapers as cartoonists and MacLeod later drew funny cartoon titles for motion pictures in the old silent days.

Mary Ellis, the singing actress, has sung with the leading grand opera companies in America and Europe. She has no worries.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24.—(UP)—Few indeed are the Hollywood celebrities who would join the headline if all the movie studios suddenly closed down.

If there were no more pictures, Claudette Colbert, for instance, could land a job with a light opera company or a radio station and capitalize her voice.

Mary Boland is a talented sculptress. Six months ago she began taking lessons from Scarpitta, noted sculptor, who will not accept pupils unless they have promise. She has made such progress that Scarpitta has told her she may be able to exhibit within a year.

Another talented sculptress is Myrna Loy, who started while attending a school for girls in Hollywood. Her ability attracted the attention of Rudolph Valentino, with the result that she went into motion pictures.

By I. M. WISE

It seems the drafting of a platform, in accordance with ancient custom, is a nice way for some of the boys to pass away the time. Finding very important the platform committee labors very assiduously to frame planks which will resolutely resound in the ears of the voters during the campaign. But once the campaign is in the background, and the platform has served its purpose as a vehicle for riding into office, it is thrown into the discard.

DISHEARTENED PROMISES
These observations are induced by a tiled remarking to us that the Democrats had failed to observe their platform pledges. He cited the liquor plank and argued that despite solemn pledges the old-time saloon was back in all its glory, rather disreputable, called attention to that section which said: "We advocate the removal of government from all fields of private enterprise except where necessary to develop public works and natural resources in the common interest." But that was in 1932. He was informed and he should not be all rolled up in 1935 to find under the order of the Secretary of the Interior the government "may build and operate factories, mines, industries, etc." or that by executive order the government may "build buildings and manufacture building materials, or that under Public Acts 1967 and 15, "may purchase, store, process and distribute farm products," or that by executive order No. 6310 "may produce, market, borrow money, acquire property, or under TVAC "promote, organize, manage, finance, cooperative enterprises, etc."

PROMISE VS. PERFORMANCE
Certainly promises and performance are diametrically opposed, but what of it? No one mentions the Democratic platform any more, there being an ominous silence on the subject, particularly by Democrats from the highest to the lowest. The constitution even is outmoded and discarded, so why

Masons, DeMolay Fire Threatens Hauptmann Case Defense Records

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 24.—UP—Fire broke out early today in the three-story building, housing the law offices of C. Lloyd Hauptmann, charged with murder of the Lindbergh baby.

The building, two doors from the Union Hotel, is across the street from Hunterdon County courthouse where Hauptmann is on trial.

The fire started in the basement of a store on the first floor of the structure. Damage was slight.

Fisher, summoned from his home removed many records of the Hauptmann trial which had been placed in his safe.

Castle of Doom

Patricia Burke, an American girl stranded in Rome, goes to the village of Marveto to apply for the job of governess for the Countess Dei Sari's little boy. She meets a young American, Dirk Waters, who tells her that Count Dei Sari and his son by a previous marriage, Sergio, are up to some "dirty work." He says he is in Marveto to investigate the walls of the De Sari castle, but Pat is unable to meet him. The next day, she is wailed when the Countess behaves very strangely.

CHAPTER XXI
MOUNTING to her room, Pat carefully locked the door, then sat down to write the note which, if luck was with her, she hoped to leave for Dirk in the arranged place. It was terse: "House guarded at night. No definite news. She didn't mention the scream she had heard. Later she was to realize that this had been a mistake, but at the time it didn't occur to her that a mysterious scream at night would give Dirk anything to work on.

At three-thirty, she awakened Peter and took him into the garden. He was full of the importance of showing her his sandbox and, to her great delight, she found that her guess had been right and that it was near the western gate. It would take her only a few minutes to slip out and be back.

The only danger was that of leaving the child alone. Would he tell his mother and father that she had disappeared for awhile? It was a chance, however, which she had to take. There seemed to be no other way of getting in touch with Dirk.

"Will you promise to be good if I leave you for a minute?" she asked tentatively. "I've forgotten my handkerchiefs."

Peter, already hard at work building strange forms in the sand, barely looked up.

"Promise," he agreed.

PAT hurried away. Stopping only a moment at the gate to be sure she was not followed or observed, she slipped out. The path winding along the rocks was narrow and dangerous, but she was too intent on her errand to think of the danger of making a false step that would mean a drop of several hundred feet. Time was her most pressing problem.

Just as Dirk had said, the path ended in a little cavern and, at the back of this, she saw the stone he had mentioned. Had he left a message for her or not? With trembling fingers, she lifted the stone and found, to her intense relief, a slip of paper half buried in the dirt. There was no time to read it here, however. Hastily sticking it in her pocket, she left her own note, and replaced the stone.

Her heart was thumping as she retraced her steps, and returned to the sandbox. Peter was still entirely engrossed in his play, and she drew a long sigh of relief. Glancing at her watch, she saw that the whole trip had taken exactly eight minutes.

"Did you go for your handkerchief, Nannie?"
"Yes," Pat smiled. "Did anyone come to keep you company while I was gone?"
Peter shook his curly head emphatically.

"Nobody wants to keep me company—except you, Nannie."
WELL, this time, at least, Pat thought, she had been lucky. The child not to mention her brief absence—tell him that his father would scold her if he knew—but he decided against this. It would make her action assume an im-

Cornish Awaits Word On Life And Death Test

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—Dr. Robert L. Cornish, young University of California medical research worker, tonight awaited a telegram from Governor B. B. Moore of Arizona, which, he hopes, will be the signal that starts him on a startling journey to the land beyond the grave.

With a human body for experimentation, Dr. Cornish will attempt to repeat the experiment he twice performed successfully on two dogs that were killed and returned to life.

He said today that he has communicated with Governor Moore, asking to be granted an interview through which he hopes to convince Arizona's chief executive of the scientific value of allowing the body of an executed convict for his experiment.

LABOR BOARD ASKS DEATH AUTO CODE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The Labor Advisory Board tonight demanded that the automobile code be drastically revised or abandoned when it expires February 1.

"After discussing the matter 'roughly,'" said William Green, president of the A. F. of L. and chairman of the N. R. A. board, "the board decided it would 'enter no code at all to reveal in its present form."

NOT SATISFACTORY

"If the industry proposes a revision without change we will suggest that the code be dropped. We then will go to Congress and ask for legislation to permit the President to impose a satisfactory code."

The board found fault with the present code's merit clause, wage and hour provisions, and the seasonal character of work in the automobile industry.

The merit clause provides that employers can hire and fire on the basis of merit. The industry has been in taking the clause on the end of a collective bargaining agreement, over the protest of the board and the American Federation of Labor.

WORK OUT NEW PLAN

Secretary Perkins was understood to have told the board that the administration had worked out an agreement with the industry to revise the code and to provide for a new plan.

A report by N. R. A. research and planning division on regularization of employment, now in hands of the NRA administrative board, is to go to President Roosevelt within a few days. The Labor Advisory Board has not yet received that report.

JOBS FOR A BILL PASSED AMID BATTLE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—(UP)—The administration's $4,850,000,000 jobs for all bill was passed 10 the House late today after the powerful majority had defeated every attempt to restrict President Roosevelt's authority under the measure.

The bill carries the "largest lump sum appropriation in the world's history."

Passage of the bill in virtually the same form as drafted by the administration was assured 48 hours ago when party leaders yielded to demands of rebellious Democrats and opened their sections to amendments.

MEASURES TOLD

As finally approved the measure authorizes:
1.—President Roosevelt to spend $4,850,000,000 as he sees fit to provide jobs for 2,500,000 employables now on relief rolls.
2.—Expenditure of $800,000,000 of unexpended funds for direct relief until the new work program is in full swing.
3.—Consolidation, abolishment or transfer of functions and duties of an emergency agency.

E. D. GETS POWER

4.—Acquisition by purchase or by power of eminent domain any real property to effectuate the new program.

5.—Mr. Roosevelt to prescribe rules and regulations necessary to carry out the new act.

6.—Fines for willful violations not to exceed $5,000.

The bill does not:
1.—Prevent the government from contracting with private industry under the new program.

WAGE SCALE TOLD
2.—Specify the wage scale to be paid under construction contracts let by the government.

3.—Bar mark any of the $4,850,000,000 for specific projects in any locality.

4.—Provide additional taxation.

5.—Give Mr. Roosevelt power to extend the life of emergency agencies such as the PWA and NIA as was sought by the administration.

GOES TO SENATE
6.—Dedicate the individual or agency which shall administer the huge fund.

The measure now goes to the Senate where individual members already have expressed dissatisfaction with it and where every effort will be made to restrict its scope.

As the first important piece of legislation enacted by the 74th Congress, the bill was used by Republicans as a vehicle for a stinging attack upon President Roosevelt and the entire new deal spending policies.

HIT PROGRAM

While Minority Leader Bertrand Snell was declaring heatedly that the chief executive was attempting to influence legislation in the House, Senator James Collins, Republican, Michigan, said the man who wrote the works bill "ought to be hanged—not in effigy but physically."

The expressions were typical of the diatribes against the terms of the bill. The chief complaints were that the measure would place the government more deeply in competition with business and that the proposed $50 million wage to be paid was too low.

ONETAH GROUP IN PLANS FOR YEAR'S WORK

Routine business matters were discussed last night when the Onetah Council, Degree of Pocomontas, held its meeting at the Red Men's Hall.

The new officers for the year presided for the first time. Reports were heard on installation ceremonies held last week.

Plans for the year's work were outlined. Mrs. Alice McCurie presided over the business meeting.

A social evening was enjoyed with Ruth Pavack heading the committee in charge of the affair.

Plans are being arranged by the lodge for a dinner dance to be held some time in the near future. Mrs. Bertha Shubat will head the committee in charge.

The social committee for next meeting night was named as Bertha Shubat, Anna Praz, Grace Mc Masters and Elizabeth Pacheco.

Committees for the year were named as follows:
Sick—Etta Rothrock, Geneva Sandidge and Claire Barry.

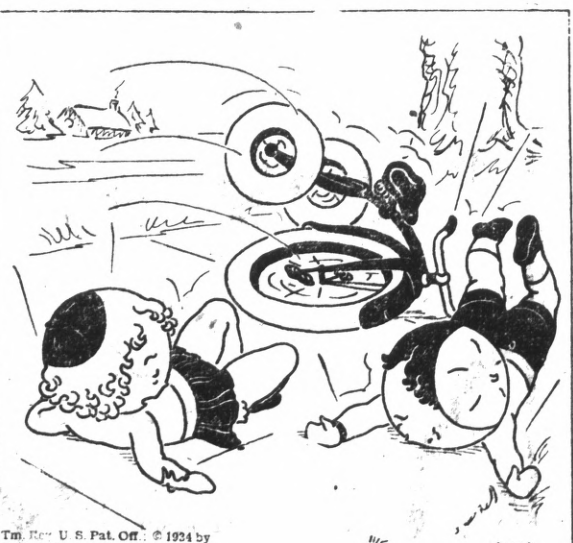

Finance Committee—Elizabeth Pacheco, Ruby Hodson and Geneva Sandidge.

Publicity—Claire Barry.
Drill Captain—Harry Ward.
Ways and Means—Elizabeth Pacheco, Grace McMasters, Lottie Sandidge and Bertha Shubat.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly weak and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feelings is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin pimples break out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. Don't take other liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Refuse a substitute, etc. at drug stores. © 1934 C. M. Co.

DEPOSITORS CLAIM THEY WERE MISLED

SAN JOSE, Jan. 24.—(UP)—Depositors in the San Jose Pacific and Guaranty Building and Loan Association were "misled in every possible way," Fred J. Hart declared today before five members of a state assembly committee investigating building and loan investment business.

CHARGES MARKET BREAKING
Hart, president of the Building and Loan Depositors and Certificate Holders league, charged that the Guaranty company circulated stories tending to "break the market" after former State Building and Loan Commissioner Fred Richardson had obtained agreements from investment associations to pass the pass book price of the concern at 50 cents on the dollar.

DEPOSITORS WILL LOSE

"Depositors never will recoup the interest losses they have suffered but stockholders will walk out with a big profit," Hart said.

Approximately 500 persons attended the hearing. R. G. Albright, an investor in the Pacific State Savings Association, B. M. Shepherd, an investor in the San Jose Pacific company, and Fred L. Fehren, president of the League of Pass Book Holders in the California Mutual Company, now in process of liquidation, also testified before the committee.

The committee telegraphed Speaker of the Assembly Edward Craig asking that consideration of a building and loan bill now before the legislature be delayed pending Hart's testimony.

Hart charged that the San Jose Pacific Company had refused to cash its own pass books, referring inquirers to an Oakland brokerage firm.

Shepherd said he paid $3,790 at $60 per share for non-assessable unaffiliated stock in the San Jose Pacific's holding company, and later was told by the manager of the San Jose Pacific Company, J. C. Cooper, the stock was a "dead loss." He said he sold it later for $9 a share.

CRITICIZES SALE

Fehren criticized methods under which bids were received for the Barcelona Apartments, recently sold here by the California Mutual Company. Fehren said the apartments were netting $10,000 a year profit, and that interests of the company's depositors might better have been served by retaining the building.

The assembly committee was composed of Frederick Peterson, chairman, James P. Pitt, James J. McBride, Ralph L. Welsh, and Kenneth Dawson.

Audit Of Books Not Requested

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—(UP)—Reports that association members had asked permission of the board of directors to audit the cooperative's books were denied today by F. E. Smith, secretary of the California Canning Peach Grower's Association.

No audit has been conducted for some time, it was reported, and as a consequence a group of prominent co-operative members were said to be anticipating such a request. It was said they planned to submit the request to the board at a meeting today.

maintain positions on the files of both Houses for revenue bills yet to be formulated.

In addition to proposal of new taxes, the attack on the existing sales tax opened with introduction of a number of bills all aimed at the exemption of foodstuffs. The measure introduced by Assemblyman William Messidy Jones and Charles Hunt, Los Angeles, also would exempt medicinal supplies.

ASK FOR PROBE

Seen as the first step toward a possible alternative tax proposal by the Administration, Assemblyman Harry B. Riley, Long Beach, introduced a bill seeking a $10,000 appropriation to finance an investigation of the "feasibility and advisability" of a gross receipts tax on state or local purposes.

Riley said the bill "came from the governor" but refused further comment.

CARRY BIG BURDEN

The bill pointed out that "real estate is carrying an intolerable burden" and that an investigation of the gross receipts proposal should be made. An initial report would be made to the current legislature, and the final report in January, 1937.

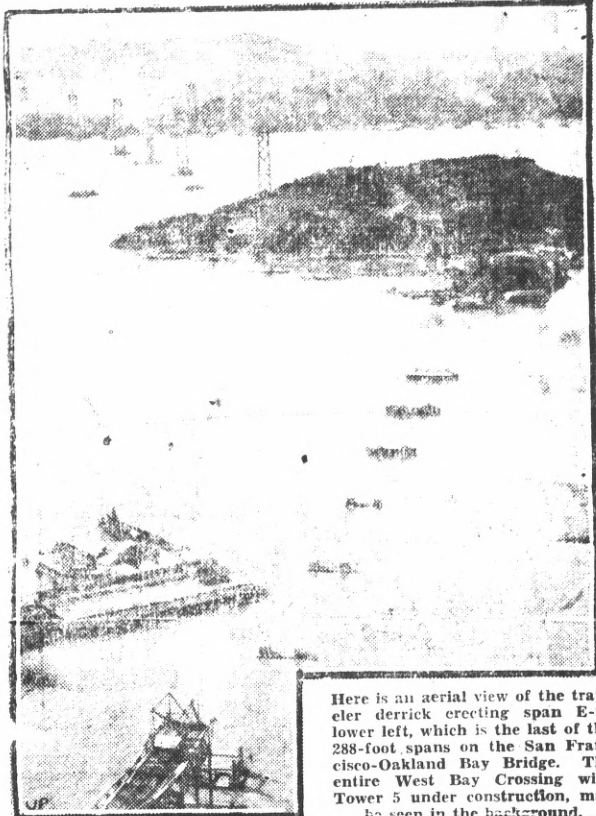

While making no mention of "syncrotax" the inquiry proposed would deal with this taxation proposal.

Riley estimated the gross receipts tax would save the State $10,000,000 a year because of its simplicity of collection.

While opposition to the Governor's budget became more evident administration bills carrying out details of the program were being introduced in both Houses, including measures calling for inclusion of all roads in the State highway system and a tax on tobacco, the rate for which was not set.

Assemblyman Rodney L. Turner, Delano, proposed a bill to increase the gasoline tax one-half cent a gallon, the additional revenue, estimated at $5,000,000 a year, to be used for payment of interest and retirement of highway bonds.

President Urges Conservation of Our Resources

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—(UP)—President Roosevelt called on the people today to work with nature and conserve the nation's heritage of natural resources.

He proposed spending billions of dollars for conservation.

In a message to Congress transmitting the recent report of the national resources board, the President said that later on half a billion dollars should be devoted yearly to conservation. The board report said more than $100,000,000 could be spent wisely for this purpose in the next 20 or 30 years.

He also revealed that he plans to devote to conservation projects part of the four billion dollars public works appropriation he asked from Congress.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Here are some of the recommendations of the resources board. A six-year public works budget, with a $10,000,000,000 reserve fund.

Retirement of 15,000,000 acres of Government land at the rate of 500,000 acres annually.

Broadening of subsistence homestead program, accompanied by a decentralization of industry.

Federal assistance to and control of the mineral industries.

The Mississippi valley committee proposed.

Federal control of the transmission of electricity and development of rural electrification.

Completion of navigation facilities on the main stem of the Mississippi and connections with the Great Lakes.

Utilization of all forms of transportation as parts of a coordinated system.

Flood control on major tributaries of the Mississippi.

brief sentences. His voice fell harshly on the courtroom. But all this was only preliminary sparring. Everybody knew something was about to happen when a man and a woman pushed through the crowd, Reilly waved for Hauptmann to step down from the witness chair. Deputy Sheriff Henry Low, who stands guard at the witness stand while Hauptmann testifies, moved over and took charge of the prisoner.

CALLS WITNESS

"Christian Frederickson," shouted Reilly.

The roly poly little man who had come out of the crowd was sworn in. His wife went back among the spectators.

Reilly was about to get home a deadly thrust against the state's case at the outset. People began to recall that Lloyd Fisher, another defense counsel said a half hour before when he delivered his opening statement and shouted hoarsely through the room that Hauptmann was innocent because: "We will prove that he took his wife home from the bakery where she worked on the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped."

"We will prove that Hauptmann was attending a party in his own home the night the ransom was paid in St. Raymond's cemetery."

QUESTION BAKER

Reilly realized that this little baker sitting in the chair could speak words that might save a life. He handled him cautiously.

Frederickson testified that he was at work at the bakery on the night of March 1, 1932 and that Mrs. Hauptmann was working that night. But, when Reilly asked whether Hauptmann had called for his wife that evening, the little baker said:

"It might be, but I can't swear to it."

Reilly's brain racing like a dynamo, asked the question again before the reply would have a chance to sink in. Again little Mr. Frederickson replied: "I can't swear to it."

Attorney General David T. Wilentz got out of his chair and began to cross examine Frederickson. He wheeled him, had him repeat over and over that he couldn't swear that Hauptmann was there that night.

BACK TO STAND

The prisoner seemed to realize himself that the case was not unrolling like Fisher had said it would unfold. Hauptmann went back to the witness chair, a grim man, no smile on his lips now.

Mrs. Katie Frederickson testified she was off duty on the night of March 1, 1932, and therefore, is not a competent witness.

And so it was not Hauptmann who made the news today when the hour finally came from him to start his story. It was Christian Frederickson who made it, and it was Lloyd Fisher who helped him.

TELLS STORY

For Fisher's opening statement revealed that the defense has a witness who will swear that he saw a man carrying a ladder along the road to the Lindbergh home on the night of the kidnapping.

"And that man," Fisher shouted "was not Bruno Richard Hauptmann."

Hauptmann traced his arrival in the United States. He told how he went to work as a dishwasher, progressed until he had a job as a dyer and then became carpenter in the days when men who could use saws and hammers were earning $10 a day.

Reilly was trying to build up a defense against the State's charge that on April 2, 1932, Hauptmann suddenly became wealthy because of a night rendezvous among the tombstones of St. Raymond's cemetery.

GHOST TO WALK

At no time today—except when Frederickson testified—did Reilly and Hauptmann come to grips with the vital points in the issue that is on trial here. They will come tomorrow when the ghost of Isidor Fisch will walk the courtroom while Reilly tries to show that a dead man committed the crime for which Hauptmann is being tried.

Defense lawyers went mechanically through a demand for a directed verdict of innocence today. They argued that the State had not proved that Hauptmann murdered the Lindbergh baby. The court listened gravely to the argument for 40 minutes and then ruled: "Motion denied."

Then Fisher, a Flittington lawyer who knows every man and woman on the jury, got up and drew a blueprint of the defense's case. He began with a general denial of Hauptmann's guilt.

LEAVES OUT ONE
When Mrs. McCord presented her resignation it thanked four members of the board for their co-operation, but Supervisor Long took exception to the wording telling Mrs. McCord that "I have defended you in very adverse circumstances." On the suggestion of Chairman Buchanan, the wording of the resignation was changed to include all members of the board.

WIDE RANGE INQUIRY
The course of the investigation took a very wide range. During the animated discussions that took place at the hectic night session, it is reported alleged missing records, assignments, a cash book that only a long hunt produced, private locked files, and diamonds were discussed.

TEXT OF RESIGNATION
The resignation of Mrs. McCord reads as follows:

Martinez, California, January 24, 1935.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Contra Costa County:

I hereby tender you my resignation as Director of the Social Welfare Department of Contra Costa County, to take effect immediately. I have accepted a position with the Biron Memorial Foundation for the treatment of infantile paralysis, which will require my full time and attention in the future.

I desire at this time to express to the Board, who have at all times fully co-operated in the many problems that we have had confronting us during my term of office, and particularly during these last trying years, my hearty appreciation of that co-operation, and of their untiring efforts for the best interests of the human welfare needs.

Yours truly,

RUTH MCCORD.

Mrs. McCord stated that she had accepted a position with the Biron Memorial Foundation to be established at San Mateo by Dr. W. Scov for the treatment of infantile paralysis.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—(UP)—Harry Sawyer, once a satellite to John Dillinger, Alvin Karpis, and the Barker brothers, was revealed by federal sources today as the "finger man" in the $200,000 Edward G. Bremer kidnapping.

Federal operatives said he studied Bremer's daily routine, learned his wealth and gave the kidnapers information which enabled them to seize the banker just after he had taken his daughter to school and started for his office.

With 20 others, Sawyer was indicted by a special federal grand jury at St. Paul Tuesday. It was revealed in Washington.

These indicted included Alvin Karpis and Harry Campbell, who escaped in Atlantic City on Sunday and were hunted through the Middle West tonight.

SOVIET AND JAP FORCES IN WARFARE

against the superior Japanese forces.

However, both Chinese and Japanese, officially described reports the Japanese had occupied Tushikou as fantastic. The Japanese military issued a statement saying their forces nowhere had crossed into Chahar except for aerial "maneuvers."

LULL REPORTED
A lull occurred tonight. Japanese and Manchukuo troops consolidated their positions in front of the Chinese troops, who dug in ready for a fresh attack.

Artillery and armored car units of the Japanese moved swiftly into position over ground frozen hard and deep by the penetrating zero weather. The Japanese are using light American made trucks for fast movement.

PEKING CITY
The Chinese reported a Japanese unit had occupied Kuwian, and intended to extend their occupation throughout Chahar, adding it to Manchukuo as they did Jehol province northwest of Peiping three years ago.

The Japanese military attaché in Peiping, Colonel Takahashi, announced a Japanese officer and soldier had been killed and two officers and four soldiers seriously wounded in fighting so far. He declared Tushikou would be "heavily bombarded" if the Chinese continued to resist.

ELIMINATE BANDITS
Their sole aim, he insisted, was to eliminate the Chinese irregulars on the frontier and restore peace in Asia. As soon as these troops are "eliminated," the Japanese said, their present drive will end.

The lull in fighting tonight was hailed by the Chinese as an indication Tokyo felt its show of force at the war had had its effect, and was willing to resume negotiations for further assurances General Sung's men would be kept in hand.
